Jenny Bell

When talking about her art practice Jenny Bell quoted Constantin Brancusi Romanian sculptor –

“Simplicity is complexity resolved”. Bring something down to essential qualities.

Jenny Bell has spent her life on the Land. She studied at the National Art School and Sydney College of the Arts. Her two great passions are Regenerative farming practices and Art. For the past thirty years she has combined drafting sheep and family life with an intense commitment to capture and record the world around her in charcoal, oil paint and mixed media.

As Anne Loxley from Sydney Morning Herald notes –

She is one of those rare picture makers whose draftsmanship is totally unmannered, and her sense of pictorial space gives the best Ken Whisson's a run for their money.

Art Workshop

The workshop will guide students through a series of exercises and processes and give participants tools to examine and access the landscape around them.

All art materials will be provided. Please bring: hat good walking shoes, 2 milk crates or equivalent strong surface, and a spirit open to regeneration.

Mt Narra Narra A large scale Hereford Beef Breeding business. The cattle are managed in one mob on a planned holistic grazing plan. Mt Narra Narra is the backdrop of expansive Wantagong Valley at the foot hills of the Woomargama National Park. The property is inspirational in its simplicity and beauty.

Bibbaringa on the SW slopes of Southern NSW 45 km north of Albury. An Ecological Beef Cattle farm. You will start in the newly renovated WoolShed and enjoy the view of surrounding farmland on day one.
