EARTH CANVAS

Earth Canvas is about reconnecting people with the farming landscape and using the eye of the artist to express what they see. It is about empowering people to be part of the solution to make planet earth a better place.

JO DAVENPORT

"Sometimes I think my work is more about painting than anything else. In my work I struggle to find that ineffable response that the sublime nature of landscape creates within. The fleeting moments of unlimited rapture. It is these moments I want to capture in paint. My work is not traditional landscape but more concerned with the feeling you get in a transient moment. To express the allure of that moment and intern connect the art and the viewer. I am interested in the space between the painted surface and the viewer, and how to load that connection."

"My work doesn't deliberate on protest but focus on the connections with landscape and the environment that surrounds me. To be still and know what it is that I am looking at." Artist, Jo Davenport.

NICK & DEANNA AUSTIN

Regenerative Farmers Nick & Deanna Austin - Mundarlo is 1450 ha farm situated on the Murrumbidgee River between Wagga Wagga and Gundagai. Nick returned to the farm family property in 2001 after working as an engineer. Deanna is a health professional and understood the balance between lifestyle, environment and wellbeing.

The millennial drought and the floods of 2010 and 2012 highlighted the variabilities and extremes of Nature. This was the catalyst for change. As a result, Nick and Deanna decided their farm needed more flexibility and resilience if it was going to meet their financial, ecological and social goals.

GEM GREEN

Gem works with farming businesses throughout Australia with subtle energy in the landscape. She will share stories of how it can affect all aspects of the world. Based in Orange and a farmer of a vibrant grazing enterprise growing grassfed Beef and Lamb.
