EARTH CANVAS

Earth Canvas is about reconnecting people with the farming landscape and using the eye of the artist to express what they see. It is about empowering people to be part of the solution to make planet earth a better place.

ROSALIND ATKINS

The proposed project has the capacity to provide opportunities for the artists, farmers, local and broader communities to work together to strengthen the understanding of the shared responsibility for the land we inhabit and use.

Much of my visual art practice is concerned with the careful consideration and observation of places within the rural and urban landscapes. I am a firm believer in the importance of the natural world in peoples' lives and the increasing alienation from nature in urban environments.

I look forward to the opportunity to work with a Regenerative farmer to understand their philosophy and practice and find a way in which to successfully interpret this through visual artwork.

ROD CHISHOLM

CEO from Soils for Life discusses the big picture - thinking about what we need to know about our soil.

JOY WEARN

Having Ros visit our farms has given me a greater appreciation of the significance of all trees in the landscape. We plant and nurture and enjoy trees and Polly will enjoy them well into the future and maybe her children. They out live us.

Trees have the energy and power and hold history of former years.

MATT KIRBY

From Global Land Repair - Most of the degradation of earth, land, water and air can be repaired by trees. Our mission is to instigate and inspire the planting of as many trees as possible on planet earth as quickly as possible with the maximum survival, growth rates and simplicity of care.
